

The Atlantic and Gulf Seafood Technology Conference Goes Virtual

Register for FREE Online at:
www.agstc.weebly.com

The Atlantic and Gulf Seafood Technology Conference was created in October of 2016 to establish and maintain the exchange of technical and scientific information on wild-caught fisheries, aquaculture and seafood science throughout the Atlantic and Gulf regions.

| Date | Topic | Speaker |
|--|--|--|
| Monday June 21, 2021 3-4:30 PM | Fish and Fishery Product Hazards: Current and Future Updates to the FDA Hazards Guide | Karen Swajian, US Food and Drug Administration (USFDA) |
| Tuesday June 22, 2021 3-4:30 PM | Application of Imaging and Vision-Guided Intelligence in Oyster Sorting and Crabmeat Picking Automation Systems | Dr. Yang Tao, University of Maryland College Park |
| Wednesday June 23, 2021 3-4:30 PM | Resilience to Crisis: Preparing for Uncertainty in Seafood | Moderated by: Kevin Edwards, Health & Nutrition, SGS North America, Inc. |
| Thursday June 24, 2021 3-4:30 PM | COVID-19 and the Seafood Supply Chain | Moderated by: Reza Ovissipour, Virginia Tech, Virginia Seafood AREC |
| Friday June 25, 2021 3-4:30 PM | Understanding the Impacts of the Current GMP's on Sanitation and the Common Seafood Industry Sanitation Deficiencies | Steve Bloodgood and Karen Swajian USFDA |

Students!

Interested in winning a $500 prize? All students of seafood science are eligible to submit a 2-3 minute, pre-recorded Lightning Talk. All talks will be presented at the 2021 Virtual AGSTC and a winner selected. More details at www.agstc.weebly.com.

Student Submission Deadline June 4, 2021

We hope to see you there!